

Climate Change won't wait, why should we?

The amount of time and effort that people and organizations do to help the environment is remarkable, people spend nearly their whole lives helping and inspiring more and more people, however, when # you look at how much trash is still in the ocean and is still being made, and the amount of emission records we are still breaking. On March 22nd 2022, it got to 82 degrees F, and in Antarctica 70 # degrees F above normal, in March. Climate Change is no longer some slow moving, won't effect us thing,. The effects of Climate Change are now universal, and it's not waiting for us. If we want to stop it, we have to act now. We can't stop or give up, for fear and # dispare is the enemy, feeling bad for ourself does not, and will not help. Standing up and fighting for the environment will help, and everone can do that, even if its just buying the printer paper thats 30% recycled paper, or going to the store and using cloth bags instead of paper or plastic ones. Which is why I always say to myself "lazieness is the enemy". If we are lazy we fail, not only does lazieness not help, but it also helps Climate Change directly, in this case doing nothing is doing alot. Doing nothing is letting plastic bag# companies stay in buisness, which kills wild life both on land and in the ocean, but it also takes alot to make plastic bagk, and it makes emmitions to make it. This is why I believe that you can not statisticly help pollution and not help Climate Change and vias visa. This is also why I refer to it as the 'environmental movement' and not specificate on one or the other. Which is why this has become a fight to compleatly save the Natural world, not just some parts, the world is being distroyed, more than we can posibly imagine, so we have to do sompthing now.
